DELAY OVER SYCAMORE PROJECT

Opposition Appears at Board Of Supervisors' Meeting; Postponed to January

After heated discussion pro and con before the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors this morning, all bids on the completion of Sycamore Canyon road were rejected by that body, and final decision on the disposition of Sycamore Canyon flood waters was delayed until the second Monday in January.

City Manager Virgil B. Stone, mayor Spencer Robinson, President W. E. Hewitt of the chamber of commerce and others urged the adoption of plans for a tunnel from Sycamore canyon to Verdugo wash instead of plans for the completion of the Sycamore canyon drive project.

Stiff opposition to the tunnel, led by Roscoe Belcher, developed, however, and after long arguments had been introduced by both sides, proponents of the tunnel plan agreed to the postponement as the only apparent means of blocking the letting of contracts on the completion of the open ditch plan. Lon Haddock, heavy owner of property abutting on Verdugo wash, spoke in behalf of the delay in decision. Opposition to the tunnel was voiced by delegations representing property owners both along Verdugo wash and Sycamore canyon drive.

The vote of the supervisors to delay decision and reject all bids on the three remaining parcels of the Sycamore canyon work, was unanimous. The board instructed proponents and opponents of the tunnel to "get together" between now and the second Monday in January and agree on some definite plan for the disposition of the Sycamore canyon flood waters. Members of the city council headed by Mayor Robinson, City Manager V. B. Stone and President W. F. Hewitt and other officers of the chamber of commerce, members of the chamber flood control committee and a number of other citizens attended the session before the supervisors.

U. S. Wins First Point At Opium Conference

GENEVA, Nov. 24.—The United States won its first fight today with the opium producing countries when the international conference for regulation of the narcotic drug traffic voted down the demand of England and India that sub-committee meetings be secret. America energetically protested the English-Indian demand and demanded a roll call. Twenty-six delegations thereupon voted for public meetings. Eight countries, including Britain and India, did not vote.

Announce Winners In Limerick Contest; New One Now Under Way

No matter what the Limerick Editor thinks about it, The Glendale Evening News will hold another limerick contest. Yes, even if it kills off the Limerick Editor. So, The Glendale Evening News will pay $3 for the best limerick, $2 for the next best and $1 for the third best received on or before midnight, Friday, November 28, 1924. Send them to Limerick Editor, The Glendale Evening News, 139 South Brand. The first received will get the prizes, other qualifications being equal. None will be returned. A number besides the prize winners will be published. All must be signed with name and address of contributor. Right? Then shoot 'em in!

By LIMERICK EDITOR
Of The Glendale Evening News

Letters to the left of him, letters to the right of him, letters in front of him, letters behind him, letters all around him, each containing limericks, the Limerick Editor of The Glendale Evening News hasn't had much rest since the contest closed at midnight Friday. He's all in and doesn't care who knows it. However, he's able to announce the winners.

HARRY A. JAMES, 1535 East Wilson, gets the first prize of $3. He took in the football game between Glendale Union High school and Van Nuys, recently played to a tie, combined it with his knowledge of poker and boiled it into this:

A football team in this city
Is probably expecting some pity.
For the game with Van Nuys
Ended in one of those ties.

That do nothing but add to the "kitty." Mr. James also sent in some other limericks and one of them is also published today. Mr. James' voice is recorded on the phonograph; he does monologues; he talks via the radio and now he's a limerick singer—and winner!

MRS. RAY H. PHILLIPS, 320 West Dryden, gets the second prize of $2. In the first limerick contest Mrs. T. R. Graham, 134 North Louise, won second prize with an offering about Joe Skinned who grinned when this contest was mentioned. Mrs. Phillips turned the fact that Joe Skinned was a winner into a winner for herself. Here it is:

You know that guy named "Joe Skinned"
Who laughed when this contest "began."
I saw him today
At the Harriett Mae,
Spending the money he "wonned."

The Harriett Mae, he it known, is a local tea room. The Limerick Editor now awaits a call from The Glendale Evening News business office for slipping over free publicity for said tea room. Oh, well! The life of a limerick editor is a short but merry one.

MRS. JESSIE WOODRUFF, 1415 Thompson, R. 2, Box 1974, gets the third prize of $1. She made up a combination of Iowa. The Evening News and Glendale that is certainly deserving of mention—and the dollar. Here is what she submitted:

There was an old man named Hale
Had an Iowa farm for sale.
He put an ad in The News,
And now he can choose
The home that he wished in Glendale.

And there you have the three prize winners, selected out of scores and scores of offerings. Now, then, let's look over some of the other limericks.

Here is one from T. R. Caswell, 1336 Valley View. Mr. Caswell, evidently took considerable interest in the recent political campaign. Lookit:

There was an old man named La Follette,
The campaign he thought he could
Spill it.
But he had the wrong cue,
And his plans went askew.
Now, where, oh where, is La Follette?

From politics let's go to pills. About everyone in Glendale knows Dr. H. R. Harrower has established a remarkably big business in Glendale dealing with glands. So this one from Mrs. W. J. McIntyre, 1011 East Lexington, is a gem:

It may be the fault of the mail,
So what right have we to carry the tale?
There is a laboratory
We blame for our story
For a letter came addressed to
"GLENDALE."

Get it? Yes, so did the Limerick Editor the very first reading. Also, Mrs. McIntyre says it's true. Laying aside politics and pills, let's go to the police department. Here's one offered by J. D. Cole, 628 North Orange, desk sergeant of the Glendale police force.

There was a young lady named Perkins,
Who was very fond of green gherkins.
She ate a whole quart,
That was more than she ort;
And it picked her internal workin's.

Be that as it may, Alfred W. Prater, 1247 Allen, offers this one:

Kid McCoy Is Present At Burial of Mother

At the Little Church of the Flowers in Glendale today Norman Selby (Kid McCoy) wept at the bier of his mother. Surrounded by deputy sheriffs, the former actor and pugilist held his hands over his face as the tears fell over the flower-covered casket which held his mother's body.

Selby was taken to the church for the funeral service from his cell in the Los Angeles county jail, where he is held for the murder of his sweetheart, Mrs. Teresa Mors, wealthy antique dealer, after his attorneys obtained a court order, stipulating if the prisoner attempted to speak to anyone he would be immediately returned to jail.

The ex-pugilist was haggard and worn from grief following the death of his mother, Mrs. Mary Selby, 78, who died Saturday. Shock due to her son's arrest, hastened her death, physicians said.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24.—Deputy sheriffs searched the mountain wilds near San Bernardino today for William R. Fee, bank president of Alhambra and San Gabriel, Cal., who disappeared while on an outing Saturday. Shortly after Fee left for a hike a shot was heard in the direction he had taken and later his wife reported the banker's revolver, was missing. Mrs. Fee told the authorities she feared that her husband had accidentally shot himself.

A unique "pictorial cross word puzzle for children"—one that tests a child's powers of observation as well as his vocabulary and ability to spell, will be offered little readers of The Glendale Evening News beginning today, November 24. It differs from any other cross word puzzle produced. A picture drawn about the puzzle itself helps find the first word—the key to the puzzle. These puzzles will appear three times a week, the answer for each one appearing the following day. The puzzles and answers will appear on the editorial page.

CAPPER NOT FOR EXTRA SESSION

Leader of Farm Bloc Not In Favor of Move to Summon Congress

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—"Cut out the wind-jamming and hot air and get down to business and we will not need an extra session of Congress."

This was the advice given by Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, head of the farm bloc, as he came from a conference at the White House with President Coolidge.

The Kansas senator has just been elected by a majority that will run over 300,000, which is about 30,000 more than the president received.

How People Feel

"The last election," said the senator as he pointed a finger toward the president's office, "indicates how the people feel about a man who says little but does things. What the average man in the west wants is economy and business-like administration. Congress needs to be crowded into getting its program through. It can be done at the short session if we all get together. We have had enough of speechmaking and talk."

Asked how he thought the west felt about tax reduction, he added:

"Oh, we are for that and we believe it can be done. I would be in favor of the passage of a joint resolution at this coming session of Congress which would authorize the treasury to refund 25 percent to the taxpayers if it should be found at the end of the present fiscal year in June that a sufficient surplus has been accumulated to permit such a cut."

No Need of Session

"I believe we could adopt such contingent legislation and then there would be no need of an extra session or to wait until December for the tax cut."

Mr. Capper's thought is that Congress by authorizing the treasury to use its discretion after Congress has adjourned in March

MRS. HARDING PAID LAST TRIBUTE

Hold Brief Services at Marion, Ohio, for Widow Of U. S. President

By CARL W. TURNER
For International News Service.

MARION, Ohio, Nov. 24.—Marion's trail of mourning came into being again today.

Scores of Marion folk, in tribute to the wife of the 29th president of the United States, charted the course over which the body of Warren G. Harding was borne to Marion cemetery some 15 months ago. This afternoon the late president's wife was carried down that path to rest beside her husband.

Mourning Everywhere

Hundreds of persons braved the disagreeable weather to visit the old-fashioned house where the body of Florence Kling Harding lay, awaiting the funeral hour.

Everywhere in Marion, where Mrs. Harding grew from girlhood to become mistress of the White House, were signs of mourning.

The floral offerings from all parts of the nation, were rivaled in Marion, only by the floral display at the bier of President Harding, himself.

Sing Favorite Hymn

Dr. Jesse Swank, pastor of Epworth church, who conducted funeral services for President Harding, delivered the sermon, after which Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, where the late president worshipped, offered a prayer.

"Mrs. Harding's favorite song," "The End of a Perfect Day," concluded church services. The song was rendered by the Columbus, Ohio, Glee club.

Then began the solemn journey to Marion cemetery and to the receiving vault which contains the body of President Harding. Services at the tomb were of the same brief character as those at the church.

Lives In Hot Water

Two views of FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, millionaire, prominent Democrat, candidate for vice president in the campaign with James M. Cox, nominee for president, victim of paralysis of both legs. He is now trying to regain his health, planning a physical and political comeback.

Almost Helpless Cripple Is Making Game Fight for Health and Politics

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 24.—Franklin D. Roosevelt is literally living in hot water in a bold and brave effort to "come back" both physically and politically.

This resort at this time of the year is not a place where one would expect to find a young millionaire, a prominent Democrat and a man of the world. It is a summer resort and the hotel is closed, the few cottages are deserted. But here Roosevelt is living in hot water. He spends many hours a day in a pool fed by warm springs with sources somewhere in the mountain that, through volcanic heat, are continually 90 degrees.

Water and Sun

"It will only be a matter of time till I can walk again, I feel sure," he says. "My physician has told me that swimming, warm water and sun baths are all that I need. I've been greatly helped and I've only been here two weeks. My right leg I hadn't been able to move for three years. I can use it a little now. The other is much better, too."

Shortly after passage of the new law, it was explained, the question was raised by Orange county authorities to determine whether the general boxing law superseded the local ordinances in effect in that county prohibiting boxing and wrestling.

In that connection Attorney-General Webb today gave it as his opinion that the state law supersedes all similar or conflicting city or county ordinances, it was announced at the attorney-general's office.

BULLETIN

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Egyptian troops are evacuating Sudan, according to a Central News dispatch late today. The British government, in a note Saturday, demanded that Egyptian troops be withdrawn from Sudan as part of the reprisals for the assassination of Sir Lee Stack, sirdar of the Egyptian army and Sudanese governor general.

CAIRO, Nov. 24.—Zaghoul Pasha, premier of the Egyptian government, resigned this afternoon after an all-night conference with his cabinet over the tense situation in Egypt. Ahmed Ziwari Pasha, former minister of communications, was designated premier to succeed him.

Late this afternoon Ziwari had not determined upon the makeup of the new cabinet.

British forces were ordered to occupy the customs house at Cairo today as the first step in the British reprisals against Egypt for refusal to comply with London's demands Saturday.

Money Paid Over

The 500,000 pounds sterling demanded to indemnify England for the assassination of Sir Lee Stack was paid at 11:45 o'clock by check. It was accompanied by a brief note, protesting the other demands, including evacuation of Egyptian forces from the Sudan.

The British are expected to take steps today toward the expulsion of Egyptian forces from the Sudan, forcing compliance with this demand in the British note. It still is problematical whether the native Sudanese forces under British officers, will be used for this purpose.

The government has been given full use of the police to preserve order. The steel-helmeted officers are parading the streets on watch for any signs of outbreaks.

JAP WOMEN TELL OF MISSION WORK

Glendale Missionary Gets Letter From Former Jap Students

Miss Maude A. Soper, missionary in Tokio, Japan, from 1903 to 1908, is in receipt of an interesting letter written to her from six Japanese women who attended the school founded by the Women's Foreign Missionary societies of the Methodist church in Japan in October, 1914. Miss Dora Schoonmaker, of Illinois was the first woman sent out to Japan. Rev. and Mrs. Julius Soper, parents of Miss Soper having gone to Japan in 1873. The letter was read by Rev. Soper at a meeting of the Missionary society of the Glendale Methodist church held Thursday afternoon, and told of the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the school held in Tokio, November 16, 17 and 18.

There are fourteen hundred alumnae of the school and at the present time one thousand are enrolled. A letter was written to missionaries who are retired or on furlough and letters were received by Miss Soper, and Miss Matilda Spencer, of the Glendale Sanitarium and Mrs. Dora Schoonmaker Soper, of Los Angeles. Following is the letter written by the six Japanese women:

"Aoyama JoGakuin, Aoyama, Tokio, Japan, October 24, 1924.

"Our Dear Miss Soper:—This letter is written as a greeting from the Aoyama JoGakuin alumnae. How swiftly the time passes. We hope this will find you well and happy. As it is fifty years since our school was started, it is our plan to have the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary. Miss Sprout, our president, and the committees have planned that the celebration shall be simple and spiritual. 'Spiritual,' this is the motto of the coming anniversary.

"The sixteenth of November, the day of the commemoration will be Sunday. So, at the beginning of the meetings, we will be able to have the religious service. Miss Sprout and other teachers are praying and working very hard to invite many girls to offer themselves to Christ.

In Appreciation
"The alumnae members and the students are to present a grand piano to express our hearty thanks and congratulation. On the 17th, the school will have Founders' Day. After the ceremony we are going to ask all the teachers, old and new, to come and dine with the alumnae members. When we talked about inviting them to come, we all thought how happy we should be if you could come too, that day to give us pleasure by your presence but since it is impossible to see you face to face we write this letter to you.

"There are many things to remind us of you and often we talk together of the old days. We are all grown up now, some made homes and some become grandmothers already, and some are teaching in the schools and some have become famous musicians and writers in Japan and some have been for the Kingdom of God and some have passed away.

Kindness Not Forgotten
"As the years have gone by our circumstances have changed and the more we meet the experiences in the world the more we appreciate what we were taught in school and our hearts go forth in gratitude to our missionary teachers. We can not forget your kindness no matter how separated we are by time and space. If you could come you would find our school is grown up.

"You will be surprised to know that we have twenty-four classrooms, a fine gymnasium just finished, in which we can have the celebration, fourteen hundred alumnae members, fifty-six teachers and nearly ten hundred pupils. The cherry trees which we used to admire so much became such big trees and the blossoms bloom over the roof in the springtime. We wish you could see them. We are very happy to have the fiftieth anniversary now and we are grateful to you and to God that our lives, like strong links in a chain, have made possible the present prosperity of the schools.

Earthquake Recalled
"During the years the school has had many experiences and trials especially the earthquake last year brought such a disaster but the merciful hand of our Heavenly Father has been all around our school and we all trust and believe that our school will continue to be a strong influence in the upbuilding of the Kingdom of God in Japan. We need more and more your prayer and your sympathy. We are very glad to tell you that the teachers at the school are all well and working hard.

"We hope this letter carrying our heartfelt thanks will reach you by November the 16th that we may enjoy your wonderful heart during our commemorative services, thus we may be one in spirit, you there and we here, celebrating together the founding of our school and giving thanks to God for what He has done for us. This is a letter just to express our thanks and remembrances of your kindness to us and to the school.

Lovingly Yours,
"Chiyo Kozaki, Sue Yabuchi, Tsune Komatsu, Chiyo Kobayashi, Fuyu Ikubo, Sugi Hida."

REV. COLE SPEAKS ON CHURCH NEEDS

'Why Join' He Asks Members Of Central Christian In Sunday Sermon

Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church spoke on "Why Join the Church?" yesterday morning and said:
"The church of Jesus Christ is the home of the soul. Jesus founded it and dedicated it to the spirit of fellowship and service. The nearer it approaches His ideals it becomes the more perfectly the home of the soul. If the crowds understood the New Testament conception of the church it wouldn't have so many critics. We know that many act as though they conceived of the church as a kind of benevolent lodging house whose inmates are fed insignificant doses of moral gruel and encouraged to sleep their lives away in virtuous nonentity, a kind of etherized opium joint with its somnolent hallucinations.

"Let us give the lie to such conceptions. The church can be the home of the soul, giving peace and satisfaction, and at the same time be an arsenal from which heroic soldiers shall gather weapons of efficient warfare against the enemies of righteousness and of our Lord. It can be the resting place for the saints and at the same time a generator of heroic purposes and great conquests. We come to this service to rest and worship in soul, but we shall go out alive!

Noblest Institution
"We are a part of the noblest institution on earth, even though it has its defects and the habiliments of the world to contend with. It is in great fight and perhaps its greatest battles are ahead, but victory perches on its banners. There are storms; but they have not blown out the lights in the harbor.

"The Christian anchor holds. We don't need the prophet of dismay and defeat in the pulpit today. Neither do we want those who cannot see the storm. What we want is a ministry and a people who have faith in the ultimate triumph of Jesus Christ and His Kingdom.

Tribute to Lincoln
"We need men like Garfield who, on the day the news of Lincoln's assassination reached New York, withstood the crowd and with a flag in his hand held back the mob and cried out: 'Fellow citizens, Clouds and darkness are round about Him! His pavilion is dark waters and thick clouds of the sky! Justice and judgment are the establishments of His throne! Mercy and truth shall go before His face! Fellow citizens, God reigns and the government at Washington still stands!'

God lives. The Christ reigns in the hearts of growing multitudes of men the world around. The church will triumph and carry His banner to the last lost man of the earth. There cometh a day when the nations of this world shall be one, the Kingdom of our Lord and His Christ, and He shall reign forever and ever. Don't you want to join the ongoing forces of the Church of Christ?"

SAINTS NOT ALL IN HEAVEN, CLAIM

Central Methodist Pastor Takes Sunday Sermon From Galatians

"Marks or Medals" was the theme of the sermon delivered at the Central Methodist church yesterday morning by Rev. Leo C. Kline, pastor. His text was taken from Galatians 6:17: "I bear branded on my body the scars of Jesus my Master" (Weymouth's translation). Rev. Kline said:
"An interesting word is used here, Stigmata, meaning brand, scar or mark. It refers to the custom of branding slaves with the mark of ownership. It was the mark of servitude, disgrace and shame as well as ownership. Paul boasts that he is bearing the stigma of slavery to his master, Jesus Christ. Someone has said, 'God will not look for medals, but for scars.' Medals may mean nothing, but scars indicate service, sacrifice, suffering and loyalty. Scars reveal that one has been in the center of action, the place of danger and conflict. Marks indicate ownership.

Every Person Has Marks
"Every person bears in his own character the evidences of possession. These may reveal Christ as the Master or the control of evil. The marks are plain to the world. Eternal and true were the words of Jesus, 'Ye cannot serve God and Mammon.' Scars indicate sainthood. Years of suffering, cruel persecutions, strong temptations only tend to make more vivid the marks of Christ upon the man. Saints are not all in heaven. We will be saints here or never. The saints are the witnesses of God to the world, living letters, known and read by all men. Every life tells a story; we are writing it today. The place of service may be obscure, the worth of the work unrecognized by men, but God sees, He knows, He will reward.

'MAKING AMERICA CHRISTIAN' TOPIC

Rev. Thomas Of Grand View Church Urges Unity Of All Religions

Rev. George W. Thomas, pastor of the Grand View Community Presbyterian church preached yesterday on "Making America Christian," and said:
"The grandest task in America is not to drive out or even to keep out any race or color, but to build the spirit and the ideals of Jesus Christ into every race and color here; not to keep any race or color down, but to lift them all up to the level where they can tolerate trust, love and help one another. That is the level of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. That is not a mere rattle of sounding phrases. It is God's divine plan for America, the only hope for her or for the world, the grandest task to which God ever set any people. Yesterday was National Missions Sunday throughout the Presbyterian church and special sermons on work of the great Board of National Missions and its task of 'Making America Christian,' was preached at all Presbyterian churches.

French Idea of U. S.
"The premier of France has recently said that the only unity in America is political; that is that its people live under one government, but that there is no real unity of race, religion, ideals or spirit in America any more. Another leading thinker has said that not six per cent of the people of the world at large care one whit whether the type of civilization America has developed survives or not; and that millions now in America do not care either.

"A great hearted Jew in New England says that the New England conscience which built the foundations of America must guide its destinies and the spirit of Jesus rule its life, or another fifteen years will bring us to chaos and ruin. If these two statements are true—and there is certainly much truth in them—what a world of truth there is in the challenge of the Jew from Boston.

Evening Sermon
"If these things are true and they are in the main, then the next fifteen years are going to be the far greatest people ever lived through. For in them we who care tremendously what becomes of America are going to give her the unity of faith and spirit that shall make her many peoples one. You of the churches of Jesus Christ, thank God for the fifteen years before you and measure up to them."

At the evening service Rev. Thomas spoke on "Let There Be Light," showing how wonderfully Christian education, evangelism and social service are leavening national life today and stating that since the first century of the Christian era of the church, had never rendered such mighty service on so broad a scale nor with such keen comprehension of the purposes of the Master. "Home, church, school, community are being unified once more," said Rev. Thomas, "and there is no stopping them until the knowledge of the Lord shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea."

JUVENILE JUDGE TALKS IN CHURCH

Home Conditions Responsible For Many Cases Before Court, He Says

Judge H. R. Archbald, of the superior court of Los Angeles was the speaker at the Congregational church last night. He said:
"Many of the cases of delinquency that come before the juvenile court are due to home conditions, to death of parents, divorce, quarrels, or lack of home training. There were 1765 petitions filed in the juvenile court in the first six months of this year. If we can only get the boys and girls and parents to think about the causes of moral failure we can stop it.

Children Neglected
"Parents go through life with eyes on everything except their own children and their best welfare. We know that very often a thought about a godly father or a godly mother has kept us from going astray. The responsibility for boys and girls rests heavily upon the parents than most of them realize.

"Boys and girls of today have powers and ability, but what they need is responsibility and dependability. This must be backed by morality and religion. Boys and girls need to be given direction, and it should be given by the family and the home.

To the 'unknown soldier' were recorded the nation's greatest honors.

In closing, Rev. Kline made application of the retired Methodist church preachers and presented the cause of the conference claimants, a movement in conference to raise an endowment fund of $500,000. Subscriptions were taken at the close of the service. The appointment of the Central M. E. church is about $1000.

TELLS NEED FOR MISSIONARY WORK

Dr. J. F. Winnard Quotes Figures on Foreigners In U. S. Now

National Missions Week will be observed in Presbyterian churches this week. Dr. James F. Winnard, pastor of the Tropic Presbyterian church, gave the time to a preparation of the claims of home mission work. He said in part:
"Historically speaking, the Presbyterian church was the first church in America to undertake organized home mission work. As an evidence of its pioneering nature and spirit it is shown now that less than 2500 of its more than 10,000 churches are what are classed as city churches and its Sunday school missionaries are the only ones today who are organizing and carrying on their work in communities where there is absolutely no possibility or hope of an established church as an outgrowth.

"America is not only a great field for home mission operations, but is splendidly fitted for the carrying on of the work. While we have but one-sixth of the world's inhabitants, we possess 40 per cent of the world's wealth, and today as a nation are richer by thirty-five billions of dollars than all the rest of the nations with which we joined in the world war put together. We produce 25 per cent of the world's food and 34 per cent of the world's manufactured articles bear the stamp 'Made in America.' Forty per cent of the world's raw material is dug up by this little old 6 per cent of the world's population. We mine 50 per cent of the world's coal and 15 per cent of its oil, 79 per cent of its cotton, 79 per cent of its corn and 64 per cent of its petroleum.

Negroes Here
"We own 36 per cent of the world's railroads, 40 per cent of its water power and ride in 84 per cent of its automobiles. We produce more tobacco, drink more soda water and chew more gum than any other six nations combined. With all these great riches we have not escaped responsibilities. For within our borders we have more than ten million blacks, or one-tenth of our total population that are to be 'toned with.' More than 50 per cent of the world's babies are born every morning before breakfast. No immigration laws can affect these people, for they were here first.

"More than 14,000,000 foreign born make up one-twelfth of our population and their 20,000,000 children are in many instances as foreign as the parents themselves. One-fourth of all the Jews of the world are in the United States. The larger our cities, the greater the foreign element. In New York City 76 per cent and in Chicago 78 per cent of the population are either foreigners or the children of foreign born parents. One-sixth of the population of Old Mexico has crossed the Rio Grande in the past twenty-five years and now present a problem to Southern California. All these and millions more. And now these conditions confront us. Fifty-four per cent of our adult population have no church affiliation and twenty-seven million of our children and young people are outside all Sunday school training.

"The Presbyterian church is carrying on 7850 missionary enterprises; 4600 of these are churches. All the work is being done in communities where it would be absolutely impossible to support the work without home mission aid. There are 565 foreign speaking churches, 464 colored churches and more than 4000 missionaries are giving full time to the work. The Synod of California last year spent $200,000 in this sort of enterprise and results warrant the expenditure of every dollar.

"Here in Southern California our home mission work is in a measure pre-eminence. Self preservation is a law of life. And if our country as a whole could realize how much of its real life comes as a direct result of the work of the church of Jesus Christ it would perhaps be more liberal in its response with funds and workers. Practically every church in California is built on a home mission foundation. And practically every church of real value will have the same kind of a foundation."

DR. FUNK SPEAKS ABOUT IDLENESS

First Lutheran Pastor Asks Of What Service We Are to Generation

In discussing the question "What Service Am I Rendering to My Generation?" Dr. H. C. Funk, pastor of the First Lutheran church yesterday, said:
"Idleness is not honorable. In the economy of God's grace the lazy man has no place. Our health and our happiness are both dependent on activity.

"Work is the law of our being. The proudest decorations of a Chinese gentleman are finger nails that give silent proof that he has done no work; and we have known Americans who are just as proud of their 'fingertips.' Christ, the carpenter, manifested no such signs of gentility.

"Someone asked a woman philanthropist, who was quite wealthy why she worked so hard for the poorer class of girls. Her reply was: 'I have been paid in advance and owe it to them.'

"The chief reason for your existence and mine is to render some service to the generation in which we live; to make the world a little better for our having lived in it. It is every man's duty to devote himself strenuously to some good work or calling, whether he needs the money or not; or whether he is paid for it or not. That is what we are here for."

Rev. Durr Takes 'Holy Spirit' Sermon Theme

"The Indwelling of the Holy Spirit" was the theme of the sermon delivered at the Montrose Methodist church yesterday morning by Rev. George L. Durr. "The Law of Revivals" was the topic of Rev. The ten-day mission will close Tuesday, December 2.

The services during the coming week will be as follows: Early morning mass at 6 o'clock, followed by a sermon. Late mass at 8 o'clock, with sermon following. The "Children's Mission" every afternoon at 4 o'clock. Evening services: short instruction and prayers at 7:30, followed by the sermon of the evening, and closing with benediction. BUFFALO ON MENU NEXT THURSDAY

Blount's Cafe Secures Large Bison From Yellowstone For Thanksgiving

Real "he man" buffalo from the wilds of Montana will be the Thanksgiving dish enjoyed by diners at Blount's cafe, 136 1/2 North Brand boulevard. A buffalo weighing 750 pounds arrived in Glendale this morning by way of American Railway express for delivery to Blount's.

The big animal, a straggling remnant of a past generation and a rapidly disappearing race, will be placed on exhibition in front of the restaurant tomorrow between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock. After this, he will lose his head and hide, and will go into the oven to become Thanksgiving dinner for hundreds of Glendaleans.

The buffalo was procured by C. A. Blount through the state agricultural department of Montana, there being strict regulations against the killing of the animals by private individuals. S. H. Rose, state official, sent the buffalo to Glendale. Only thirty-two hours were required on the trip from Yellowstone National park, near which the big bison was killed, to this city.

PREDICT BIG YEAR FOR BUILDING

Report Shows Shortage In Leading Cities; Need Residences Most

There still exists a building shortage of over $4,000,000,000 in 380 cities of the United States exceeding 10,000 population, according to a national housing survey recently completed by the educational department of S. W. Straus & Co., a noted financial institution. In all, 228 cities were canvassed, but 128 reported no shortage.

Of the twenty-five leading cities New York led with a shortage of $855,000,000, the greater part of which is needed for residential types of buildings. Chicago, with a shortage of $501,543,000, was second. Philadelphia reported a shortage of $240,000; Milwaukee, $130,000,000; San Francisco, $78,500,000; Pittsburgh, $77,000,000; Los Angeles, $51,000,000; Denver, $45,500,000; Cincinnati, $42,000,000; Portland, $35,000,000; Cleveland, $29,750,000; St. Louis, $16,000,000; Buffalo, $15,250,000; Newark, $5,000,000; Detroit, $7,000,000; Indianapolis, $3,000,000; Seattle, $2,500,000; Rochester, $1,800,000. No shortage was reported in Boston, Baltimore, Washington, D. C., New Orleans, Minneapolis, Kansas City or Jersey City.

Inasmuch as no cities under 10,000 population were included in this survey, the actual building shortage in the United States greatly exceeds the four billion dollar figure arrived at by S. W. Straus & Co. To check this added shortage, a supplemental survey of twenty small towns was made and a shortage of $14,591,000 found.

Big Building Year
 It is therefore seen that 1925 has every prospect of being another big building year throughout the country. The American building bill for 1925 will exceed $4,500,000,000, according to figures recently made public by the federal reserve board and the department of commerce. Should the coming year equal this great record, even then the United States will be no more than even on its building program, according to the Straus survey.

In Glendale the 1924 building total gives every indication of exceeding the $10,047,601 record of 1923, being in excess of $9,000,000 at the present time, or $500,000 ahead of this time last year, according to H. C. Vandewater, superintendent of the building department.

The survey of S. W. Straus & Co. sets the exact amount of the building shortage at $4,050,820,000. Of this, $2,102,698,500, or over 50 per cent, is needed for residential types, $1,130,851,500 is needed for commercial types, $787,303,000 for contemplated structures and $317,270,000 for federal, state and municipal types.

Aids Employment
 The preponderance of residential types, general throughout the country, holds good in Glendale, where a high percentage of the total building bill is for private homes.

During 1924, direct employment was given to over 2,500,000 persons by reason of the huge sum of $4,500,000,000 expended in building operations, the federal reserve board reports. This great army of workers will not be demobilized during 1925, the Straus report indicates.

Specifically, to Glendale, this means that a $10,000,000 building bill gives employment to approximately 5500 people. With another ten million dollar building year in 1925, Glendale will maintain intact its army of workers. Should this figure rise to twelve or fifteen millions, as many experts predict, additional thousands of workers will have to be drafted into the service of the local building trades.

Wilson School Closes Educational Program

Friday, the final day of National Education week, was celebrated at Wilson school by a field day program that featured competitive drills, under the direction of the physical education department. The boys were divided into squads and gave a splendid performance when they tried out for honors in competitive military drill. Company "D," captained by Norman Girard, and composed of A-8 boys, was awarded first place by the judges. The final boys' event was the elimination drill, when winners from each physical education class competed for drill honors. William Delabar was able to outclass the other stars, and will be awarded a school letter. Walter P. Hansen, vice-principal, and Harry A. Lintz, physical training instructor, directed the boys' drill.

Mrs. Margaret Struble, girls' physical training teacher, then put the girls' squad through a quick gymnastic drill. Reita Shradler's squad coming out with the honors.

In spite of the warmth of the day, over 400 visitors were present to witness the exhibition, and Miss Carrie M. Noble, principal of the school, and her staff of teachers felt well repaid for their efforts by the interest and appreciation that was manifested by the audience. More than 600 persons have visited Wilson Intermediate school during the past week, ample proof that National Education week is not confined to schools alone, but is understood and encouraged in the homes of Glendale citizens.

Tricky High Winds Do Funny Stunts In City

The high wind Saturday night blew down awnings, smashed windows, set off burglar alarms, and kept the police and fire departments busy investigating calls that had their phones sizzling all night long.

The awning at 225 South Brand boulevard blew into the plate glass window and smashed it. The burglar alarms at the Fred B. Walton men's furnishings shop, 146 South Brand boulevard, played a duet with the one at the Pendroy Dry Goods Co., next door.

The fire department raced out twice, once early Saturday night and again early Sunday morning, to quell rubbish fires fanned to dangerous proportions by the high wind. The first of these overgrown bonfires was near 1000 South Los Angeles street, and the other was at 521 West Burchett street. No damage was done in either case, the reports showed.

IT IS A SHAME—

That we can't punish some parents instead of their children.
That good people are so slow to help with public affairs.
That sheer nakedness sometimes gets itself called art.
That immorality ever seems to be funny.
That a quarrel lives so much longer than a kindness.
That rich fathers can't bequeath their judgment with their money.
That men accept God's goodness without giving thanks.

Some woman not yet selected.
Clyde L. Seavey of the State Railroad commission is spoken of as an independent candidate by the La Follette supporters.
If it is your intention to become a candidate for governor, it would seem to be none too early to throw your hat in the ring. There is no dearth of material, according to this list, which promises an interesting campaign.

THE PASSING OF A NOBLE WOMAN

Four years ago Warren G. Harding and Florence Kling Harding were prominently before the American public as the coming president and the first lady of the land, and there was much speculation as to the part they would play in the history of the country. Today they have passed into the great mystery and others occupy the highest positions the American people can bestow.

It is generally agreed that the strenuous duties and anxieties connected with the office of president of the United States caused the death of Warren G. Harding, and it is no less certain that they were responsible for the passing of Florence Harding, for she stood shoulder to shoulder with her husband in all her life with him and especially during his campaign and in the performance of his duties as president of the United States. And, in addition, she met all those obligations that fall upon the first lady of the land with capability and dignity, and bore up with fortitude during her husband's illness and passing. The American people learned to love Florence Kling Harding in the short time that she presided over the White House. Her efficiency, her wisely devotion and her democratic ideas endeared her to us. She was a noble woman, and we mourn her passing.

INCOME TAX PUBLICITY

A Baltimore newspaper has been indicted by a federal grand jury for publishing income tax lists which, according to Attorney General Stone, is contrary to law. This will be made a test case to determine whether or not newspapers which have been publishing the tax lists have been violating a federal law. "It will not be so easily determined whether these same newspapers have been also violating the laws of good taste, and, if so, whether the public service they have rendered by publishing income tax facts is sufficient to justify them," says the Santa Barbara Morning Press. "This paper believes publication of such facts constitutes an unwarranted violation of the privacy of the individual. It is possible that the practice will prick some bubbles of snobbery and disclose an occasional tax evader, but the good probably will be overbalanced by the evils attached to such disclosures. For the most part it merely satisfies a prying curiosity similar to that of King Gama in the Gilbert opera who sang, 'I know everybody's income and what everybody earns, And I carefully compare them with the income tax returns.'"

It may be determined that publishing such personal information as the amount of income tax paid is within the law, but, even so, it can serve no good purpose.

COST OF EDUCATION

Those who feel that we are spending too much money for the education of the young should study the recent report and maps issued by the United States Bureau of Education. This gives the per capita cost of public elementary and high school education in each of the states. The average per capita expenditure is $14.47, and California is highest on the list, spending $25.30, while Alabama, the lowest, squanders $4.55 in the cause of education.

But the significant part of the report is that it reveals what this expenditure accomplishes. The percentage of illiteracy is highest in those states where the per capita cost of education is lowest. Also the amount of this expenditure is a fairly reliable index of the attitude of the state toward child labor. States which make liberal provision for the education of the young will not see its children exploited for profit in mills, mines, sweat shops and truck farms. And on the other hand those who do not see the necessity for providing adequate educational facilities for their children fail to see the harm in unrestricted child labor.

However, there is an exception to this rule since Arkansas, which spends only $4.91 per capita for education, has ratified the child labor amendment.

GOVERNOR WAS WISE

Those who criticized Governor Richardson for not calling out the state militia in the Owens valley controversy now concede that he acted wisely in the matter. The Inyo county ranchers staged their revolt for its psychological effect, and were rather good natured about it, but, had armed soldiers been sent to the scene, it is very likely that blood would have been shed. The affair was settled amicably for the time being, at least. If worst comes to worst, the welfare and the lives of a million people must not be jeopardized by a little handful of insurgents, but the city of Los Angeles should take immediate steps to give the Owens valley people justice, and do away with this danger once and for all.

Postpone your worries until tomorrow and you'll have none today

NOT A CHANCE

Forestry

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It is time the United States devoted its attention seriously to the question of forestry. Timber farming has not been profitable in this country, notwithstanding the fact that shortages constantly occur and that $250,000,000 is spent annually on freight and other forms of transportation.

The passage of the McNary-Clarke bill may improve the situation. This bill provides for the protection of forest lands, for the reforestation of denuded areas, for the extension of national forests.

We consume 60,000,000,000 board feet of lumber every year. According to Senator McNary, seven billion of this is waste through fire, insects and disease. We grow naturally and artificially but one-fifth of this annual sixty billions. Soft timber is disappearing eight times faster than it grows and hard woods more than three times faster.

Reforestation is manifestly a subject of education and of slow growth. It involves not only fire protection but a study of forest taxation and a distribution of forest planting material, the creation of additional national forest and encouragement to private owners.

The McNary-Clarke bill aims to do this and to establish the foundation of a national forest policy and though it is far from complete, its provisions are good as far as they go.

In order to protect the forests properly, state co-operation with the nation is required as, according to our peculiar American system, it is necessary for the state and the nation to work together.

Forests have much to do with the prevention of destructive floods and have an influence upon climatic conditions.

The sooner the American people turn their attention to forestation, the better it will be for the country.

Especially the planting of trees along the national highways should be encouraged, as it is in France. Also as in Germany, no man should be allowed to cut down a tree unless one is planted at the same time. There should be ample provision for reforestation. A tree should be recognized as a national asset and no man should be allowed to do as he pleases with his own trees, but the government should have supervision over them all.

SALARIES OF TEACHERS

(Riverside Press)

The division of rural schools, United States bureau of education, has ready for printing the results of an inquiry concerning the salaries of teachers in rural schools in 1923. About half the counties in the United States are represented. The number of one-teacher schools reported was 97,753 and the average salary received was $729. In twenty-two states the average was above this salary and below in twenty-six states. In only six states does the average salary for one-teacher schools reach $900. Of the nearly 98,000 teachers 3100 received less than $300 a year. Nearly all of these are in twelve states. There were 4530 salaries from $300 to $399, designated as the $300 group. There were 5589 in the $400 group, 3367 in the $500 group, 16,525 in the $600 group, 16,432 in the $700 group, and 20,826 in the $800 group. This represents the largest group of the 98,000 teachers. It appears that in two large states, Indiana and Ohio, $800 is the minimum salary fixed by law. In New York the minimum is $850 for a full term of forty weeks.

In the two-teacher schools reported the 21,624 teachers were paid an average salary of $738. The number receiving less than $300 was 1138. The $800 group was the largest, with 2988 teachers. In nineteen states the average exceeded $900.

In schools in the open country employing three or more teachers, not consolidated schools, there were 12,745 teachers reported, the average salary being $842. Here $900 is the largest salary group, twenty-seven states reporting averages above this figure.

The reports show that there were 17,260 teachers in the consolidated schools, the average salary being $1031. Here the largest salary group is $900 with 2523 teachers, only thirteen states averaging below this group. In sixteen states the average salary paid teachers in consolidated schools exceeds $1100.

In schools having three or more teachers in country villages and towns there were 42,025 teachers reported, the average salary being $1133. Here also the $900 group has the largest number of teachers, 6870. Thirteen states show less than $900 for the average salary paid, while nineteen pay exceeding $1100 for the average.

While the salaries here quoted are considerably higher than those prevailing in pre-war days, it is a deplorable fact that the country school teacher's dollar will pay for less of the necessities of life than it did ten years ago.

No one will claim that city teachers are paid too much, but reports for this year show that elementary teachers in cities of 2500 to 5000 population receive an average salary of over $1100, in cities of 5000 to 10,000 the average reaches $1200, in cities of 10,000 to 30,000 it is $1277, in cities 30,000 to 40,000 the average is $1467, and in the larger cities the average salary has already gone beyond $1875.

On account of the higher cost of living the salary of the city teacher will always be higher than that received in the country for similar service, but the gap between the two is far too wide.

Today's Poem

TO GLENDALE
In southern zone, where fruit and flower thrive the whole year round,
There dwells a youthful queen,
She strives to gain renown.
She smiles at lilies and a golden blaze, or magic play,
And fasts her eyes on white-robed mountain peaks, in winter time,
Mid distant skies where Mt. Lowe speaks, in dignity sublime.

She lifts her haughty head to gaze, at close of day,
On western hills amid a golden haze, or magic play,
And fasts her eyes on white-robed mountain peaks, in winter time,
Mid distant skies where Mt. Lowe speaks, in dignity sublime.

She robes herself in orange bloom, when spring is here,
And waits the dainty perfume far and near;
And brings forth fruit and flowers in her mantle green, with comely cheer,
And walks on velvet lawns with graceful mien throughout the year.

She fans herself with cool sea breeze, in summer days,
And rests beneath the palm or widespread trees, 'mid nature's lays;
She proudly drives through wide and well paved streets, or shaded avenues,
And speaks in grace and ease to all she meets, or tranquilly views.

She spreads her hand o'er homes, both rich and plain, in tender care,
And in her heart she feeds a hope of more than gain, but peace would declare.
She reaches out her arms o'er hill and vale, in optimism bold,
And wears upon her brow the name, Glendale, in letters of gold.

—Agnes Henderson.

"Oh, Mr. Filmmam," breathed the enthusiastic young girl, "you do tell the most comical anecdotes of your experiences! Why don't you write them up and sell them to the funny papers?"

"That's where I get them," admitted young Filmmam. "It ain't very likely they'd buy them back."

Horoscope

Conflicting planetary influences are strong today, according to astrology. Although Jupiter and Venus are strong in benefic aspect early in the morning, Uranus and Mercury are adverse.

The Moon enters Scorpio, a fixed, feminine sign ruled by Mars. It is wise to avoid important business transactions, any sort of changes and serious decisions.

During the hours when business and professional activities are carried on there may be a sense of unfavorable conditions, thwarting and disappointing all constructive efforts.

While this configuration prevails it is well to rely on the spiritual forces and to emphasize the power of mind.

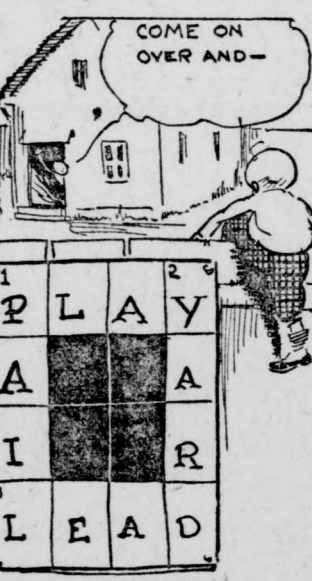

The rule is particularly sinister for love affairs, making for a strong attraction between men and women, but causing fickleness and even treachery.

This is not an auspicious wedding day, since there is not likely to be sympathy and understanding between those who are married under this direction of the stars.

Aviators should be especially careful under this rule of the stars, which makes for accidents, especially those that are caused by engine difficulties and fire.

Saturn advancing in the sign of Scorpio meets good aspects with planets affecting the United States and from this date to the new year should benefit business.

Puzzle

HOW TO SOLVE PUZZLE

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

(Running Across)

Word 1 is the missing word in what the boy is saying.

Word 3 is the writing part of a pencil.

(Running Down)

Word 1 is what Jack and Jill carried to the well.

Word 2 is where the boys will play.

The Wide-Awake Modern Merchant Does Not Hide His Light Under A Bushel

Some people shy away at the first reference to trading at home. They seem to feel that the merchants are trying to "put something over," that the business men are in league to get their money.

The merchant who doesn't ask for business today belongs in the dark ages. The modern business man describes his stock in detail, gives his prices and tells all about the service he can render to customers and those he hopes to make his customers. The wide-awake man gets his store message before the greatest possible number of prospective patrons. And whom should he seek to interest in his business and make his customers if not the home town people? To whom should he look for business but to his fellow citizens, those who are working with him in Community Development?

When the modern merchant asks your trade he is not seeking charity or favors. The time was when storekeepers asked for business for the sole reason that they needed it. Whether or not they could give you value received did not enter into the matter at all. But that day is long past in Glendale. The merchandising game is no one-sided affair. The merchant has to produce the goods, both literally and figuratively.

The home town people have helped to build in Glendale a business center that is phenomenal, considering Glendale's size and age. We have wide-awake business men. Yes, but it is your trade that has helped them build such fine stores, render such superior service and carry such representative lines of merchandise.

Your patronage of the home town merchants has redounded to the credit of Glendale and to your credit as a citizen of Glendale. The firms represented on this page know that a Greater Glendale is possible only in co-operating with you and so they have prepared themselves to meet your needs. And, as up-to-date business and professional men and women, they do not hesitate to ask you for business.

EARS

We are going to talk about Ear Troubles for a while now, but before you come to know about this ear trouble, you must know a little concerning ear anatomy; so read on, please, if you are interested. (You should be.)

The ear consists of three parts—the external ear, the middle ear and the internal ear.

The external ear consists of two parts. The outer part is that appendage which decorates or deforms, as the case may be, the outside of the head. It is known by the technical name of pinna, and the central part of the pinna is called the concha or shell. The part of the external ear which consists of the ear canal, and is called the auditory meatus (me-a-tus). The canal is about one and one-quarter inches long and ends at the ear drum. It is lined with skin which is well supplied with a characteristic type of glands which secrete the ear wax (cerumen), a thick, sticky, yellowish fluid designed to lubricate and to catch dust and adventitious insects.

The ear drum, or tympanum, is really more like a tambourine than a drum because it consists of but one membrane. It stretches across the ear canal and forms a wall between the ear canal part of the external ear and the middle ear. It consists of fibres covered on the outer side, with the extension of the skin which lines the ear canal, and on the inner side, with the extension of the mucous membrane which lines the middle ear. This ear drum vibrates to the different sound waves as they strike it, just as the disc of a telephone vibrates when it sends your voice over the wires.

The external ear with its tube, we can think of as a receiving trumpet for catching sounds. Apparently at one time in our existence we used to be able to pick up our ears and turn them in the direction of sounds, just as horses and dogs and other animals do, because there are three tiny pairs of muscles running from the ears to the side of the head. Some people still have the ability to wiggle their ears. It's quite an accomplishment.

The middle ear is the passage beyond the inner side of the drum. This is a cavity lined with mucous membrane and in it are situated three of the cunningest little bones you ever saw (the three of them wouldn't cover your little fingernail) called—because they resemble the articles—the malleus or hammer-bone, the incus or anvil-bone, and the stapes or stirrup-bone. The hammer-bone is connected with the ear drum, then comes the anvil and then the stirrup. The stirrup connects with the internal ear where the auditory nerve is situated. These bones transmit the vibrations of the drum to this auditory nerve, which in turn transmits them to the brain. (We really hear with our brains just as we see with our brains, through a nerve.)

There are two openings from the middle ear—one, which leads to the mastoid cells in the bone back of the ear, and another, the eustachian tube, which leads down into the throat back of the soft palate. The eustachian tube is open and is for the purpose of letting air up into the middle ear, so that these little bones and the ear drum can vibrate to the sound waves. (In cases of inflamed throats, this open passage to the ear is not so good! More on this later.)

Next comes the internal ear, which is a very complicated structure consisting of a set of cavities in the inside projections of the temporal bones. It is called the labyrinth. In the middle of this labyrinth is the real hearing organ itself—a wondrous, beautiful and complicated structure. It has been compared with the keyboard of a piano, only there are thousands of little keys. They are really little nerve rods and each one is supposed to vibrate to a particular sound. In this internal ear is also a set of canals, called the semi-circular canals. They are the organs of balance, but while situated in the ear, are thought to have nothing to do with hearing.

Now you know the main facts about the anatomy of the ear.

My Dear Followers—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on "Hearing and Hearing Aids" is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest and I have time, I will answer you personally. If you expect me to send you the sulphur and lard mixed into an ointment.

HAIR TONICS

Most people nowadays need a hair tonic of some sort. If the hair is very dry it may require nothing more than a little warm olive or crude oil rubbed into the roots the night before the shampoo; if it is very oily it may need an antiseptic astringent used every three or four days to cleanse the scalp and remove superfluous oil.

Very often hair that seems to be in thoroughly bad condition needs nothing but proper shampooing. If the dirt and grease are never sufficiently washed out, and if the sticky mixture of soap, oil and dust is not thoroughly rinsed the scalp is bound to become either dry and scaly or very oily, and the hair will look dull and colorless.

But if there are additional troubles try a good hair tonic. You may have to experiment with dozens before you find the one that really suits you. Every tonic should contain an antiseptic, a stimulant, a little oil, and sufficient nicotinic solution to keep it from being greasy.

I have one tonic which I recommend in two forms. It contains pilocarpine hydrochlorate which stimulates the color cells, makes the hair either a richer shade or brings back the color to premature gray hairs. This I advise for every woman more than 30 since it delays the time when the gray threads come, and for women of any age whose hair through illness or neglect is beginning to grow gray. For everyone else I recommend the same preparation without the pilocarpine, since even then it is an unusually good, stimulating, antiseptic tonic. If you want the formula send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I shall be very glad to send it to you.

The two requisite things in

Do you need a tonic?

Walnut juice will stain blond hair to a deep brown, but you would have to be very careful not to get any of it on the skin as that would also be stained.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

The Glendale public is invited to the anti-narcotic mass meeting to be held at the Broadway High school auditorium tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The main feature of the meeting will be the play, "The Judge and the Dope Peddler," produced by Hall and Summers. The play, a thrilling drama, has been the subject of much comment over the whole country and has been declared a fine lesson, though all of interest and comedy. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Anti-Narcotic League of America.

KANSAS PREACHER ON CHRIST'S LOVE

Delegation From Cyclone
State Hears Sermon
By MacLennan

A large congregation with a big Kansas delegation heard the sermon delivered by Rev. D. G. MacLennan, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Hutchinson, Kan., in the Glendale Presbyterian church yesterday. He used the twentieth verse of the second chapter of Matthew, "For they are dead that sought the young child's life," as his theme, saying:

"These words were spoken by the angel of the Lord concerning the enemies of the young Christ child. How true and prophetic these words have been through the history of the centuries. Let us note the wonderful history of Christianity. Whether we study our Bibles or history, what a thrilling story it is. It was foolishness to the Greeks, a stumbling block to the Jews. Philosophers with intellectual weapons, and governments with brutal violence sought to crush it. It was subjected to the keenest analysis and attacked with the most bitter malignity. It was ridiculed, scorned, hated, persecuted and assailed by the evil powers of earth and hell and yet the course of Christianity along the highway of the centuries has been one of triumph and progress going forever onward conquering and to conquer, until all the kingdoms of the world shall become the kingdoms of our Lord and of Christ, the Kingdom of Christ.

"Why? Because Christianity is Christ. He founded, established and builded it upon Himself. 'I am the way, the truth and the life. And I, if I be lifted up from earth, will draw all men unto me.' "Note the victory of the divine Christ. Every religion which rejects the deity of Christ, is judged and fore-doomed of God. Let us take down our histories and see. In the very first days of Christianity, there arose those who called themselves Gnostics and Ebionites. They accepted Christ as an example. For awhile, they waxed powerful—but today 'they are dead.' Note the pseudo-Clementine system that denied the deity of Christ and rejected His atoning blood. Out of the night of oblivion comes a voice 'they are dead.'

"Turning the pages of history, we come to Neo-Platonism, that drew the brightest intellects and the keenest minds of its day. But 'they are dead.' Come now to the story of Arianism, which spread through the whole church until it seemed as though the whole teaching of Jesus, the lamb of God would be utterly overthrown. Arius caught the ear of the masses as well as leaders. Athanasius alone withstood him.

Today over the tomb of Athanasius floats the old banner of the cross with the word of the Nicene creed 'Jesus Christ, God of God, Light of Light, Very God of Very God. They are dead who sought the young child's life.' And today read the history of Socinianism—how it grew in England and flourished in New England. Today it is dead.

"Verily every page of history records—the system which rejects the deity of Christ and His atonement on the cross, is doomed. 'All power is given Me, in Heaven and in earth,' said Christ. Therefore the world holds no hope for man but in Jesus Christ, the Divine Son of God and the only saviour from sin. Sin is the one big black, foul fact that touches life everywhere. From sin comes all crimes, shame and sorrow that fill the earth. Of Jesus only it is written, 'He died for our sins and rose again for our justification.' Therefore every system of theology that rejects the deity of Christ, is doomed because it cannot offer a remedy for sin, man's greatest woe.

Learn to Love Him

"But Christ must be a personal experience to every soul. Christ met Paul on the Damascus road. 'Who art thou, Lord?' 'I am Jesus.' From that hour, Paul's history was changed. For me, to live is Christ,' he cries. And we must have our personal experience of Christ. You must know the power of His love, Christ becomes real when you learn to love Him with all the brain power, mind, heart power.

"The Bay of Fundy furnishes the best grindstones of the world. There is a great rise and fall of the tide there. When the tide goes out, then cables are securely fastened to great rocks in the ocean bed and tied to rafts. When the tide comes in with its rise of fifty, sixty, seventy feet, up and up it lifts the huge rocks. So love of Christ lifts one out of self and sin and carries one to the continent of a new life. 'For me to live is Christ.'"

'CHURCH MISSION' REV. KEMP'S TALK

St. Mark's Pastor Tells Congregation of Part
Sanctuary Plays

Rev. Philip K. Kemp, pastor of St. Mark's Episcopal church, spoke on "The Mission of the Church Is to Make Converts to Christian Life" yesterday morning at the church, stating:

"Our Lord Jesus Christ sent the disciples forth to teach all nations and to baptize men and women into fellowship of the Christian church. This when all is said and done is the prime work of every body of people that call themselves Christian. By word and by example to lead all men into the glorious fellowship with Jesus Christ. The Christian life is not a perpetual lectureship, but to teach and to show the power of Christ in the life of each one of us. It was this power that made the early church such a vital organization and not its work of general helpfulness. It had a vitality which has never since been felt with a like keenness. As Bishop Temple says, so long as it was persecuted it was relatively pure for none joined it except in true sincerity. This, then, is the call of the Christian church to go and preach the gospel of the indwelling spirit of God and seal those who heed the call with the great act of fellowship. This must be expressed in the life of corporate fellowship by banding together all those who would bear witness to Christ.

"Work of Church
"The great work of the church may be considered along two lines, the general and the particular. The general is that of teaching the power of Christ in the lives of all who will follow Him; for He, alone, can bring about universal peace by changing the hearts of men; He alone can break down the barriers of prejudice, superstition, ignorance by lifting men from the narrow circle of their lives to the great plain of life with God. The particular work is to make all this a reality by establishing small fellowships of souls touched by the power of the Holy Spirit. These are the groups of people we call churches. Therefore, the church must make converts. This is nothing to be ashamed of for we must convert people to the banner of Christ. Let us then never be ashamed of our church for we belong to it because it brings us the power of life eternal or fellowship with God. If we believe in it let us not hesitate to bring others into the circle of our fellowship. This is not a plea for narrow denominationalism, but for fellowship with Christ with each finding the group that best meets his own particular needs. For us we find it in the fellowship of our own church."

House, Rubbish Fires Keep Department Busy

The Glendale fire department was called out four times over the week-end, two house fires and two rubbish fires contributing to the work of the department. The blaze doing the most damage was at 501 East Palmer avenue, where a garage in the rear of the house occupied by T. Dusterhoff was practically destroyed. The cause is unknown, the damage being placed at $350 by Captain John D. Meyer in charge. The alarm was turned in at 4:15 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

At 9:40 o'clock Sunday morning fire broke out in the house at 130 North Cedar street, occupied by G. W. Grose. The damage was placed at $10 by Captain John D. Meyer, in charge. Rubbish found against the porch is said to have been the origin of the flames.

At 8:45 o'clock Saturday night the fire department was called to 521 West Burchett street by a threatening bonfire of stumps, Captain Ralph Dodsworth in charge. At 1:10 o'clock Sunday morning the department was called to 1000 South Los Angeles street by a flaming rubbish pile, fanned by a strong wind and sending sparks in every direction. Captain George Meyer was in charge. No damage was done.

The Wrath To Come

CHAPTER XXVII

"An excellent match," Lord Yeovil declared. "Placing you at scratch, Grant, and Susan at twelve, men's handicap, the fact that I was able to halve the match against you would seem to indicate my having played somewhere about six. Six is above my form."

"I think, with the exception of the drive which you sliced from the eighth tee, Dad, and which landed in Italy," Susan observed, "you were playing better than six."

"The game has restored my faith in my powers of concentration," her father announced. "I said to myself, every nation in the world may be at one another's throats tomorrow, my resignation may be demanded before I return to England, I may march out of Downing Street, bag and baggage, the day of my return, but I will not take my eye off the ball this morning, and I didn't."

"Plumb in the center, every time," Grant agreed. "Hurrah! Here come the hors d'oeuvres."

"It is not my custom to drink wine in the middle of the day," Lord Yeovil said, "but I think we must supplement the vin ordinaire a little—Montrechet, perhaps, or Chateau Yquem?"

"This is a terrible start to a strenuous day," Grant remarked. "Tonight I dine with Delilah."

Susan looked across the table at him a little curiously.

"I am glad that you admit the attraction."

"I never found any one who knew her and was willing to deny it," Grant rejoined.

"Quite right," his host assented. "Thank heavens that I am no longer a young man. I fancy that I should find the Princess irresistible."

"When I knew her first," Grant continued reminiscently, "she was a simple American girl, living upon a farm, riding three hours every day, playing a little tennis, doing a little housekeeping. Then she had a season in Washington. After that she became somehow the vogue. A town aunt took her up. It was about that time that Von Diss fell so desperately in love with her."

"She was a fool to marry him," Lord Yeovil declared. "Even now, after all these years, a German or an Austrian woman finds it difficult to hold her own in Berlin the aristocracy, especially, at any rate until about ten years ago, have had a hideous time."

"There's a reaction going on now," Grant reminded him.

"As we well know," the older man assented. "Chiefly owing, I honestly believe, to that fascinating youth, Prince Frederick. A most charming lad. I only hope that Lutrecht and our dear friend's husband, Von Diss, and the others of that regime don't get hold of him and spoil him. By the bye, I am breaking my rule by speaking of such affairs in a public place, and Arthur isn't here to correct me. I wonder why you are not English, Grant. You would have made a wonderful secretary for me."

"I'd rather have been an Englishman than belong to any other race, if I hadn't been an American, sir," Grant answered. "As it is, I am naturally content."

"Au revoir to conversation," his host remarked, watching the approach of their first course. "I now become a glutton. Appetite is, after all, a most entrancing thing."

"During this regrettable silence of my father's," Susan observed, as she helped herself from one of the dishes, "you and I had better exchange a few ideas, Grant. You don't seem to have had much time for me lately."

"Dear Lady Susan," he beamed, "the amenities of life have seemed to lie outside the orbit of my jurisdiction the last few days."

"You always pose as being so busy," she scoffed. "What do you do with yourself?"

"Solve bridge problems, inspect my crew on the Grey Lady, lose my mille or two, eat, drink, and sleep. It is a most entrancing existence."

"You seem to have left out a few things," she remarked. "There's the Princess, for instance. I thought that it was rather the object of your life just now to entertain her."

"Others have shared that task with me," he replied. "Tonight I dine with her. We shall probably be very sentimental. I shall ask her whether she is entirely happy with the man she preferred to me. She will sigh and tears will stand in my eyes as I look through the wall. Then we shall part with a little gulp. I may kiss her fingers and she will go and powder her nose, put on a becoming peignoir and listen for

DOBINSON PLAYERS

"Mamma's Affair," which the Dobinson Players will present at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre, starting Wednesday of this week, won the prize offered annually by Harvard university for the best play of the year and made a big hit in New York states. Mrs. Florence Dobinson, it is clever and abounds in amusing situations.

Gertrude Kellar will have the leading role, supported by William H. Stephens, Mary Isabelle Alpaugh and a number of other players that have been seen before in Dobinson productions by Glendale theatre-goers.

"Mamma's Affair" is light comedy of the up-to-the-minute type, presenting life as it is known and lived by average people. This is one reason why the play has been so successful.

"Something has happened to you," Susan declared. "You used not to be so sentimental, or so cynical."

"A great deal has happened to me," he agreed. "In three days' time, Lady Susan, if you will trust me so far, I will tell you a most entrancing story."

"And, in the meantime," she reminded him, "a little coldly, 'the tears will stand in your eyes, and you will look through the wall, whilst thinking of the woman you have loved.'"

"Those things have to be," he apologized.

"For what purpose?" she demanded. "Where is the necessity? Have you anything to gain, for instance, by flirting with the Princess? Or do you do it to indulge in a sort of sentimental debauch—to go through it and then analyze your feelings? Because—"

She was suddenly silent. She felt that, in a sense, she had betrayed herself. Her father glanced at her across the table. Grant saved the situation.

"You read me like a book," Lady Susan, he acknowledged.

"You always do. As a matter of fact, a passion for diluted psychology of an analytical type stopped my taking honors at Harvard, and will, without a doubt, interfere with my complete success in life. I am hideously curious about little things. Still, I offer no apologies. The Princess has stirred colder hearts than mine."

THE GATEWAY

A nifty little tomboy who shocked the neighbors of those days by playing baseball with the boys on a Los Angeles sandlot has risen overnight to the center of the cinema spotlight.

Cecil B. DeMille focussed the attention of the film world on Vera Reynolds, five feet one, petite, assured, when from obscurity he picked her overnight to play the leading feminine role in "Feet of Clay."

Little Vera got her first chance as a girl dancer with Wallace Reid and Cleo Ridgely in an early picture. Then the twelve-year-old, chubby, comical, disobeyed a father's mandates and unbeknown to him played on comedy lots for several years until his consent to leave high school was finally gained. Then came serious parts in "Prodigal Daughters," "Shadows of Paris" and "Icebound."

To the moment when Cecil B. DeMille saw in this player of semi-character parts a type he wanted, the flapper grown-up to marriage and seriousness.

Featured with Miss Reynolds in "Feet of Clay," playing at the Gateway Theatre today and Tuesday, are Rod La Rocque, Victor Varconi, Ricardo Cortez, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff and Robert Edeson. Beulah Marie Dix and Bertram Millhauser wrote the scenario from Margareta Tuttle's magazine story.

"In Every Woman's Life" continues at the T. D. & L. theatre.

"The Turmoil" continues at the Glendale theatre.

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE CRANBERRIES

Now, Uncle Wiggly, you'll have to step lively this week! squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy in the hollow stump bungalow one morning. "You'll have no time for adventures this week!"

"Why not?" asked the bunny gentleman, wondering whether his muskrat lady housekeeper would let him twinkle his pink nose, which he did anyhow.

"Because it will be Thanksgiving on Thursday," said Nurse Jane, "and there are the cranberries to get ready, the pumpkin pies to bake and the turkey to invite."

For, you see, instead of eating turkey at Thanksgiving, as some of us do, Uncle Wiggly and Nurse Jane always invited a turkey to have dinner with them, and very kind of them, I think, if you ask me about it.

"Oh, ho! So it is Thanksgiving!" cried the jolly bunny uncle. "And next month is Christmas! Oh, what jolly times we are going to have. I'll hop along and get the cranberries at once."

"And don't spill them, whatever you do!" called Nurse Jane to him as the bunny hopped away from his hollow stump bungalow.

As Uncle Wiggly was skipping through the woods, not far from the cranberry store, the bunny heard a sad voice saying:

"Alas! Oh, dear! I sadly fear, I shall not eat again this year!"

"Why, that is dreadful!" thought Uncle Wiggly. "Some one can't eat again this year! And Nurse Jane and I are going to have a fine Thanksgiving dinner!"

The bunny gentleman looked around to see who had sighed so sadly.

But if it's the Fuzzy Fox or the Woosie Wolf, who can't eat again this year, I shall be glad of it," thought Uncle Wiggly. "Then they can't nibble my ears."

But it was neither the Fox nor the Wolf, but a poor, cold bird, who was croaking away so mournfully. The bird sat on a bare tree branch.

"Why do you fear you shall not eat again this year?" asked the bunny.

"Because the ground is frozen so hard that I can't scratch in it nor dig it up with my bill to find seeds to eat," said the bird. "Oh, woe is me!"

"Say not so!" cried Jolly Uncle Wiggly. "Wait here for me. I am going to hop to the store after some cranberries for Thanksgiving. When I come back I'll take you to my hollow stump bungalow and you shall live with Nurse Jane and me all winter and have Thanksgiving with us."

"Oh, joy be mine," sang the bird, sad no longer.

Uncle Wiggly hopped to the store and bought a bag of cranberries. He was hopping back to where the bird sat in the tree, when, all of a sudden, the Fox jumped out of the bushes and made a bite at the bunny.

The rabbit jumped ahead just in time, and the teeth of the Fox tore a hole in the bag, so that all the cranberries spilled out.

"Now look what you've done!" cried Uncle Wiggly. "You made me spill my Thanksgiving cranberries! Oh, Nurse Jane will be so angry. And I'm so angry, too! Burt-r-r-r-hoo! I'm going to throw a stone at you!" And, made brave by what had happened, Uncle Wiggly threw a stone at the Fox, hitting the bad chap on the nose.

"Oh, gurra! gurra!" howled the Fox, and away he ran.

"Yes, Gurra! Gurra! That's what I say!" cried the bunny. "All my nice cranberries spilled on the ground. I never can pick them up!"

"This is where I can help you!" sang the bird, and, flying down out of the tree, the bird with his bill, which was just made for that work, picked up every cranberry.

"Put them in my tall silk hat, the bag is torn," said the bunny. So he brought the cranberries home—every one—in his hat and he brought the bird home, too, and the bird ate the seeds from the berries.

"Now we shall have a jolly Thanksgiving," said the bunny. And if the clotheshorse doesn't wear the fire shovel's rubber boots to the rag doll's party, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly and the turkey.

BERKELEY, Nov. 24.—Talma (Tut) Inlay, diminutive California halfback, who has headed the sensational game all season, is the captain of the Blue and Gold 1925 football varsity, following his unanimous election to that honor after the big game with Stanford Saturday. He succeeds Edwin C. (Babe) Harrell, the Bears' brilliant center, who will graduate next May. Inlay is 22 years of age and is registered at the university from Salinas, Cal.

Tomorrow night—Football post mortems, including list of dead and injured.

How About Your

—For Thanksgiving Dinner your linens play the most important part.

—We are prepared to launder your best linens with great care.

—Over two million American women will enjoy a real Thanksgiving this year. For they will be truly thankful for the help extended them by the modern laundry. They will be thankful for the relief from the drudgery of washday; for their escape from steaming tubs, and the tiresome lifting-bending-stooping of washday.

—They will be thankful for the extra time the laundry has given them—a day a week, four days a month, fifty-two days a year. They will be thankful for what this extra time has enabled them to do. They will be thankful for better health, happier lives.

—You, too, can join these two million women, who are already taking advantage of the modern laundry. By sending your washing to the laundry you can have a Thanksgiving every week. There is a service suited to every family budget—a service that sends your washing back fresh and clean, exactly the way you want it.

—Make this week a Thanksgiving week by sending us your bundle.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Nov. 24.—The police department has launched another clean-up campaign, the difference between this and any previous efforts of the sort being that notices are now being served on offending property owners, under provision of 1923 Los Angeles city ordinance No. 19533. The penalty for violating any provision of this ordinance, according to Captain J. J. Mart of the Eagle Rock division, is a fine of not to exceed $100, or imprisonment in the city jail for a period not to exceed fifty days, or both.

Under the direction of Captain Mart, Sergeant John Level, with officers C. M. Partin, W. E. Waters, Elmer Gee and J. J. O'Connor, are serving these notices where property owners can be located. Trees along Eagle Rock boulevard have already shown marked improvement under the work of trimmers sent to clean them up. In most instances the police have found the owners ready to comply with their requests. Owners of some of the vacant property cannot be located without considerable difficulty and where this occurs, it is likely that the tree-trimming will be indefinitely postponed. The Chamber of Commerce division is grateful to the police department for its interest in undertaking this important work.

Local Kiwanians are going to make a big night of it on December 2, the occasion of their first or "cotton" anniversary. It will be Ladies' night, according to C. W. Preston, who with Mrs. Preston, Mrs. Andrew Wilson, Mrs. J. C. Reiter, Mrs. Carl Phinney and H. L. Pickett are supervising the program. The banquet will be served at the Women's Twentieth Century club, under the supervision of Mrs. Alice Dirks.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce will meet tomorrow night at the City Hall, it is announced by Mrs. J. C. Reiter, secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Bridge, formerly of this city, who now live in Burbank, called on friends here.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Nov. 24.—Tujunga Valley Realty board members and the ladies tonight will celebrate the successful inauguration of the multiple listing system in Tujunga with a record dinner followed by dancing at the Garden of the Moon pavilion. Turkey for the banquet are being supplied by Earl Chapman.

A thrift campaign among the school children by the Tujunga Valley bank has resulted in a large number of new accounts being opened by ambitious youngsters who have been saving their pennies. Professor Axe and teachers of the school have been co-operating in the plan by making talks to pupils and sending explanatory literature to parents. Application for a second polling place for Sunland is to be made by the Valley Center Improvement league. The last election swamped the lone precinct with a record flood of votes which the board did not finish counting until late the next day. A formal request for the voting place has been ordered sent to the county supervisors.

Tickets are on sale at the Tujunga drug store for the November meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, to be held Tuesday night, November 25, at Verdugo City.

The Choral society of the Community church gave a popular concert Friday night. Mrs. Augustus Adams directed. Mrs. Edith Sucher Robinson, soprano, sang solos, and Mrs. John L. George gave readings. Mrs. E. W. Schoch was accompanist.

Tonight the Tujunga lodge No. 592, F. and A. M., will confer the fellowcraft degree. Visiting brother Masons will be welcome.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Nov. 24.—With the opening of the 1925 school terms, this city will have a Junior High school. A resolution creating such an institution has been adopted by the Burbank High school board of trustees.

This, according to school authorities, will not be in any way a radical change in the local school system, but will be more in the way of a regrouping of the system as it has been conducted.

The Junior High school will be formed by taking the seventh and eighth grades from the grammar department and combining them with the ninth grade from the high school. The John Muir school building at the corner of San Fernando boulevard and Cypress avenue will, in all probability, be used in the housing of the Junior High school.

Gordon Whitnall, director of the Los Angeles planning commission, will speak tonight at the Thomas A. Edison school, outlining a system of parks now being planned for the San Fernando valley, and which will be of benefit to Burbank and other communities of the valley. Previous to the meeting at the school auditorium tonight, the members of the Park and Forestry commission will entertain Mr. Whitnall at dinner.

Motorist Is Fined $100 For Reckless Driving

John Oslisio of 1208 East California avenue was fined $100 this morning by Judge Frank H. Lowe of the Glendale police court, on a reckless driving charge, and, in addition, was given a suspended sentence of thirty days in jail. The arrest was made at 8 o'clock Saturday night, November 22, at the corner of Colorado boulevard and Glendale avenue.

War May Result, Says One Paper; Blow at League

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Two battalions of British troops have been ordered into the Sudan to replace the ousted Egyptians, the war office announced today. Self-government in the Sudan may materialize shortly, the foreign office stated.

There is no confirmation for reports that martial law has been declared in Egypt and that British troops have seized the customs office in Alexandria, the foreign office stated, although both moves would be within the province of Lord Allenby, British high commissioner in Egypt, without consultation with London.

Troops Ready to Sail Artillery corps under mobilization at Aldershot left today under orders to sail for India. The war office denied that cavalry and infantry drafts were being prepared for shipment to join the Egyptian staff and said the artillery movement was but part of the usual troop replacements. The London Chronicle openly asked: "Does it mean war?" adding that in some respects the demands upon Egypt seem unusually stiff, possibly opening the way to another war.

The Daily Herald likens the British note to the demands made upon Serbia in 1914 and says: "We may pursue our policy of crushing a small nation without fear of incurring armed opposition from a state of our own size, yet the consequences may be in the long run disastrous enough."

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Railroad and industrial stocks moved into slightly higher price levels today, with less of the spectacular developments that have featured the market in recent weeks.

There were many cross-currents in the market, due to profit taking in the rails and the reactionary tendencies to industrial stocks, like Wilson & Co., for special reasons. Trading was in smaller volume than in many of the recent sessions, and the number of different stocks dealt in also declined.

Low-priced railroad shares continued to dominate the market in the early trading with interest centered in St. Paul. Most of the sales today were made a point or more above Saturday's close and an advance of 7 points over last week's low. Seaboard Air Line, Pittsburgh & West Virginia and other low-priced rails which featured the market last week were in the forefront of the advance.

The high-priced industrial leaders were conspicuously active, and the oil stocks made no attempt to reflect the mark-up of gasoline prices in the principal western markets. Trading was in small volume and prices showed little change from last week's closing levels.

Sentiment in the financial district was unchanged, but the inclination to profit taking was strong and traders also showed a cautious attitude toward stocks which have moved forward briskly in the last two weeks. Rock Island and other rails, which advanced sharply last week were compelled to absorb a large amount of realizing sales.

Wilson and Co. preferred was strong in the first hour, adding 2 points to its 12-point rise of Saturday. Rumors that the company would default on its bond interest in December first caused a sharp decline in both the common and the preferred stock, the former declining from 11 to 8 and the latter from 2 1/2 to 21.

Forward movements went along in a number of specialties. Iron products rose 3 1/2 points to a new high, at 59 1/2; Universal Pipe was up 3, at 20; Industrial Alcohol up 2, at 86; Mack Truck up 2, at 111 1/2.

Strong grain and cotton markets also featured the first session of the week, and the decline of call money rates to 2 per cent indicated the existence of easy conditions in the money market. Stock sales today, 1,968,200 shares; bonds, $21,093,000.

Contractor's Slayings Sought by L. A. Police

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24.—Search for the slayer of Archie L. Haverslick, Los Angeles contractor, whose body was found on the beach below San Juan Capistrano, centered today around reports, according to police, of an attempted kidnapping of a child born to Haverslick's wife, parentage of the child, the authorities said, having been disputed. Orange county authorities reported that both Haverslick and a petty officer of the U. S. S. Boston, San Diego harbor, claimed to be the child's father. The petty officer was sought today for questioning.
